

The Continuing Saga of 2012 Black Hole Events

Yet another month has gone by and I'm still having dreams and visions of a great galactic event. The galactic center is a gateway to another galaxy and right now traffic seems to be extremely busy on the galactic road. I have seen the road to the black hole appear as a worm, or serpent, with its mouth opened, funneling through the galaxy like a spiraling roller coaster, with numerous vehicles exiting from its mouth.

In my latest dream, I saw what looked like flattened dirigibles coming out of the hole en masse, almost like a fleet of ships or planes that might emerge from the event horizon, readying for an air attack or an air rescue. I did not witness any action other than the emergence of the ships and their movement down the galactic road through our galaxy. But my impression was that they were coming into our solar system for some purpose.

Then I had another dream in which there were dense meteors also emerging from near the mouth of the serpent and they were moving quickly and bombarding everything in their path. I did not see where they or the ships were heading; I only saw them coming from near the hole and moving toward me.

In the scheme of things, our planet is currently under a lot of pressure and the tectonic plates are shifting. The planet is also experiencing a pole shift and each time a major quake disturbs the Earth, the planet shift some more. This is evident with the shifting of the Earth away from due north. Airports have had to construct new guidance signs for runways. And despite the fact that sunrise should have been at 6:23AM this morning, it actually occurred at least 10 minutes earlier since I got up at 6:20AM after watching the sun rise from bed. The planet is experiencing severe weather changes in addition to heightened solar activity. What is occurring on the Earth is also occurring in our solar system. But what we aren't seeing are the events that are simultaneously occurring in the extended galaxy. We can probably assume that the changes are similar since what happens above also happens below.

The planet is experiencing many natural, geophysical, and biological changes as species die off and others mutate. Much of this is due to intentional tampering and abuse but some is due to extreme energy changes as our solar system and planets approach zero gravity. This is creating a rip in the cosmos that is allowing us to access alternative and simultaneous realities. But it may also be what is creating the pressure and changes on the planet that will ultimately push us into a planetary disaster or provide us with opportunities to finally make contact with those who from outside our galaxy who will help some to build new civilizations elsewhere.

My dreams are not occurring in this physical plane since, obviously, I can't be physically at the galactic center. But I am seeing events that could impact our planet at some point in the future or those that are impacting the planet now but which we have no way of verifying or validating due to the non-local reality of the events. Even the US government is acting extremely schizophrenic, to the point of not caring what happens to humanity. It makes me wonder if they know about some impending event and, thus, no longer care to, or have the power to, reverse the coming galactic events. The fact that NASA has even suggested that the US send senior citizens to Mars to scout and cultivate a new civilization makes me suspicious that they know of some impending disaster.

We are less than two years away from the 2012 end date as noted by Mayan scholars. While there is debate about the exact date, it appears that the events between March 2011 and December 2012 will take the planet on a wild roller coaster ride. Not only will the geopolitical events be a source of contention, so will the entire social fabric of the world take on new meaning. While this happens, there will be more civil unrest and possibly even a major war. I've heard from friends with relatives in Israel that they regularly see spaceships as cultural and religious conflicts get worse. I can only wonder if similar to the events in the Hebrew bible, as corruption grows and political unrest creates more and more conflict, that some impending galactic event will be allowed to occur that will wipe our species off the planet to rid it of the thugs that have forgotten what it means to be human.

If that's the case, then like the great deluge of biblical times, or the destruction of the dinosaurs, we may find ourselves in a similar situation where a majority of the planet will likely die off and a new one may suddenly emerge following the destruction, with the help of neighboring star systems. Only time will tell. We are in the middle of the end and there appears to be no turning back. To move forward, that which no longer works for our benefit must literally be killed off, whether our institutional systems or the very people who have been hell-bent to destroy the Earth and humanity itself. That is, those who are doing the killing for greed, power, or religious supremacy are those who ultimately need to be destroyed, if humanity is to move forward and work together for the benefit of all.

We are at fast approaching ground zero; as a people, the planet is about to have its day of reckoning and we all need to know where we currently stand and where we want to be when we are uprooted because the new reality may be our final thought.